further agreed that the one shot arrangement might include a preliminary visit of four or five people to establish the monument site with a self-contained group of about 30 coming to the Bonins for the dedication. Ambassador Ralschauer stressed that this should be called a "grave" visit and felt that it would be desirable to permit a group to visit Iaha Jim and Chichi Jim.

Bill Bundy agreed to draw up two papers, the first of which would indicate what the President would say to take on this subject and the second should set forth in more detail the ground rules for the visit.
